The delegates to the republican senatorial district convention in the various towns in the 29th senatorial district, are being notified to meet in this city at the town hall Saturday, Oct. 12, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for senator from this district. So far there seem to be no candidates who are seeking the place, but it is thought that Albert L. Mills of Hampton and Session L. Adams of Plainfield will accept the nomination if the party desires it. Mr. Adams served as senator from the district at the last session.

DANIELSON

For the first time during the present war military honors will be paid at the funeral of one of Danielson's soldiers—Private George Beane—to-day. The body is to lie in state at St. Alban's church from 11 to 12.45. A detail of soldiers from Fort Wright and a detail from the Ninth Separate company, State Guard, will constitute a guard of honor. The soldiers also will act as escort in the funeral procession. Private Beane, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Beane, died of influenza Sunday at Camp Merritt, N. J., from which cantonment he had intended to proceed immediately overseas with the organization with which he had trained at Camp Revere, Mass.

William Poulsenakos, a resident of the West Side, was before Justice Frank M. Bedard of the town of Brooklyn Tuesday evening to answer to a charge of having failed to comply with the statutory requirements relative to sending children to school in this case the defendant being the defendant's son, Peter, 12, who was represented as having been employed recently in a Massachusetts town, and presumably in a factory. A. W. Buchanan, an agent of the state board of education, investigated the case and caused the appearance in court of the elder Poulsenakos. Mr. Buchanan stated that he had learned that the boy, who should have been in school, had been going away from here after Sunday evening to work in a Massachusetts town and has been returning on Saturdays. In the East Brooklyn school, Mr. Buchanan said, the boy had advanced to the fifth grade in three years, showing that he was an intelligent pupil and would have continued to do well educationally had he not been robbed of his rights in that respect. The court fined Poulsenakos and the boy will be returned to school. It is understood that there is a pressure for additional employees in many big plants in Connecticut and elsewhere in New England at the present time, the agents of the state board of education are scrupulously carrying out the letter of the law in seeing to it that no young person of school age is permitted to work, unless granted the necessary certificate permitting him to leave school and to labor, and the granting of such certificates is held up by many safeguards.

Death continues to take its toll in Killings as the result of the prevalence of Spanish influenza. One more death was reported Tuesday morning—that of Mrs. Rose Balcom, 36, of Attawapung, who died during the night. Mrs. Balcom's daughter, Rosemond, died with the same disease a few days ago, her funeral being held Monday at St. Joseph's church, Dayville.

Edward Fitzgerald, for many years a resident of the town of Brooklyn, where he owned a place at the foot of Bush hill, died Tuesday morning at his home on Reynolds street, Danielson. Mr. Fitzgerald left the farm some months on account of failing health, and with Mrs. Fitzgerald, came to Danielson to make his home. He was a native of Ireland, and had spent practically all his life in this country, and for nearly half a century there has been few of Brooklyn residents more widely known. Though the active years of his life were spent in farming, he found the time to form and maintain a wide acquaintance. It has been said of him that he never forgot a friend, and in times of stress and trouble many have had cause to appreciate his friendship. It is probable that during his long lifetime he attended as many, if not more, funerals than any man in his home town, often driving miles to pay last tribute of respect to those he knew. Mr. Fitzgerald was a member of St. James parish. He leaves his wife and the following children: James, of Hampton; Mrs. Nellie Gracey, of New Jersey; John, Brooklyn; Mrs. Charles Martin, Mrs. Christine Kiley and Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, all of Danielson.

To Louis Champagne, 26 Dyer street, goes the honor of being No. 1 in the new list of names on the district and holding Serial Number 322, the first to be drawn from the big glass container at Washington by President Wilson. Mr. Champagne, however, the number will be without particular effect on Mr. Champagne, who, while unmarried, is over 31 years of age, so will not have to respond to the call for men very probably until sometime later.

The first claim ever filed in this district for exemption from active first duty on the ground of conscientious scruples against war, has been received by the local board from a Killings young man. It was stated that the registrant was in question has expressed a willingness to serve Uncle Sam, preferring assignment to the noncombatant department, but willing to go into any non-combatant branch. He was fully prepared in filling out his questionnaire to answer all the special questions he was required to answer and otherwise gave evidence that he was not a slacker and that his claim was legitimate under the terms of the selective service act.

First Selectman Marshall J. Frink of the town of Canterbury has declined a re-nomination for his present office for the coming year. He was after next Monday's town election will retire from a position that he has filled with such splendid executive ability and good judgment as to merit and possess the gratitude of his fellow townsmen. Mr. Frink said Tuesday that he is retiring from public office after serving Canterbury, at different times, over a period of several years. He has duties that will keep him in Canterbury, but expresses a desire to engage in some special occupation that will aid in the winning of the war. There are a number of towns herabouts that would be fortunate in getting Mr. Frink's services in some of the positions that have become known as war offices.

The annual town reports, which have been prepared and published, show some interesting figures relative to the town farm, including heavy revenues, which help, in very large measure, to offset the gross maintenance costs. During the fiscal year covered by the reports, up to August 31, 1918, the gross expenses were $7,621.44. The receipts at the farm amounted to $3,207.50. Of the receipts $127.43 was from milk sold, $131.60 from the sale of milk and seed corn, $588.75 from the sale of eggs, $351.75 from labor and teaming, $45 from calves, $140.52 from chickens and fowl, $227.63 from the sale of beef, hides and cattle and $28.69 for hay.

Considering war conditions and war prices the showing at the farm is regarded as excellent and the net expenses only reasonably higher than they were last year, the figures then being $2,466.28 for the net expense. For the past year the inmates of the farm had an amount of board equal to that for one person for $20 a week. Last year the inmates of the farm had an amount of board equal to that for one person for $20 a week. This being an average of $4.21 per week.

Superintendent and Mrs. Oliver Bassett, Mrs. Bassett acting as matron, have received much favorable comment for the efficient management of this important department of Killings' affairs.

Danielson families began to pay more for their milk Tuesday morning, Oct. 1. The prevailing price for milk is 12 cents per quart, representing a one cent advance. The boosting of the price did not cause a flurry. It is high price, it is generally remarked, but not out of proportion to what is being received for other commodities of much smaller food value.

Mrs. E. H. Kaach, chairman of the woman's committee of the Liberty loan and her assistant workers were out hustling again Tuesday at top speed, for many of the Liberty loan workers had reported $5200 in subscriptions for the preceding day, this bringing their total in excess of $53,000.

The health situation did not appear to be much different here Tuesday morning, the preceding days for the past week. New cases of influenza were being reported, but the hope was expressed that they will not prove more serious than they have been in Danielson, where fatal results have been very few and far between.

Acting as a representative of the Travelers Aid society, Mrs. W. J. Bartlett made public Tuesday afternoon the fact that she had received telegraphic information that relatives of young men who may be taken ill at the station by army ambulances and hurried to the cantonment. This service will be rendered to relatives who receive telegraphic information, informing them of the illness of their soldier relatives. For people of this county the best time to leave for Ayer is on the 11 p. m. train out of Putnam. This train is due at Worcester at 2.15 and the train with which it connects is due at Ayer at 3.26. War department telegrams announcing a case of illness should be taken along, as they will be recognized as passes by all guards at the cantonment.

Where a number of persons may go out together from Putnam a telegram sent by them to the Travelers Aid representative at the Worcester station will result in arrangements being made to have ample transportation at the station for them when they arrive at Ayer.

Prisoners facing criminal charges were before Judge Kellogg at the opening of the October term of the superior court here Tuesday morning. Frayer at the opening of court was offered by Rev. George C. MacKay, pastor of the Baptist church of this city. Charles E. Searis acted in his capacity of state attorney and Charles L. Torrey as public defender. No sentence more severe than six months in jail was imposed on any of the accused, this being given Arthur B. Hamlin, formerly a clerk at the Putnam inn.

Hamlin pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of $335.24 from Earl C. Rogers, owner of the Putnam inn. It being charged that the crime was committed on the night of March 21 last.

In reviewing the case for the court Mr. Searis said that Hamlin was secured for the prison as a clerk at the inn through an employment agency. Hamlin, Mr. Searis stated, had been at the inn only about six or seven days when he took the money and disappeared, going to Providence in a hired automobile. It has since been learned, after closing the hotel soon after midnight, he was on duty alone that night and took what money was in the safe and in the cash register before his departure. After many weeks he had been located as a messman on a steamer plying between Porto Rico and New York, and was arrested at New York and brought back to Putnam, pleading guilty in the city court to the crime charged against him.

A sketch of Hamlin's history was brought out through questions asked in court of him by Attorney Torrey.

Hamlin said he was born in Maine, and that he had been a bookkeeper most of his life. He is 52 years of age. Prior to coming to Putnam he had been employed by an automobile company at Buffalo. He had previous experience as a hotel clerk.

"I must have been crazy when I took the money; it was all due to a woman, who wrote me and asked me to get it and come with her to New York," he said. "I took the money and went to her and gave the money into her possession. Then she told me I could go to— I was practically drunk and then she slipped as I was coming down the stairs and I fell."

Later I transferred to another boat on the Porto Rico route," he said. "I was on the boat when I was arrested."

Mr. Searis said that he did not wish to be vindictive, but felt that some punishment should be inflicted on the defendant. He was charged with being more responsible for what had done than would some poor unfortunate of a lower order of society. Hamlin knew better and was a vagrant, he said, and he was a state pauper, it was said by court officials, for he never has gained a residence in Connecticut. It is believed that he came from Pawtucket or Woonsocket.

Court was adjourned at 2 o'clock until 10.30 this morning.

The following is relative to the recent arrest of a woman, Mrs. H. Griffith, internal revenue collector with his office at Putnam, from which Mr. Griffith went away Saturday, dying Sunday.

James Harvey Griffith, a collector of internal revenue with an office at Putnam, Conn., died at his home in this town Tuesday morning, Oct. 1, of cerebral hemorrhage. He was taken ill Saturday. Mr. Griffith was in his 64th year and was born on Long Island, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James J. Griffith.

Mr. Griffith had charge of internal revenue collections in eastern Connecticut. In former days he was engaged in business with the Dellenham Printing and Publishing Company of New York. He is survived by his wife, formerly Mrs. Mary Danielson's Sunday School class of young girls. Mrs. Bosworth was one of the hostesses. Carrie Marcello, Brooklyn, pleaded not guilty to a charge that she stole 19 chickens from the property of the late Mrs. J. J. Marcello, who died in 1917. This case will go to trial.

Rosalie Herma, and John Zaruk, charged with adultery, pleaded guilty. It was stated to the court that Zaruk was an unmarried woman at the time the crime is alleged to have occurred and that she had so represented herself. It was further stated that she had some time ago been married to a man who was charged with cruelly abusing her. Judge Kellogg sentenced each to serve 6 months in jail, but suspended the sentence of Zaruk for one year, Judge A. G. Bill to be probation officer and Mrs. Herma and Zaruk to report to him regularly.

John Hardin, who was left by his wife, Mrs. Herma, and also believed her to be an unmarried woman, pleaded not guilty to the charge of adultery, but on being disposed of as were those of the woman and Zaruk. The parties all live in Danielson.

The session developed a strange case—that of Frank Wilcox, an aged man, charged with theft and vagrancy. Over in Ashford they picked him up in August, charging him with the theft of a small quantity of melted ice cream. Mr. Searis stated, as he noted the case, being disposed of as were those of the woman and Zaruk. The parties all live in Danielson.

Boosting the suffrage cause, workmen here interviewed prominent citizens of this city Tuesday morning, secured their permission to use their names on telegrams to senators who are holding out, urging them to support the passage of the amendment. It was reported by the workers here that only one of the Putnam men who was approached refused, and that all the others not only gave permission, but also paid for the transmission of the messages, which read, in effect: "Support the war and vote for the suffrage amendment."

Marguerite Clemons left Monday for Norwich where she will take a three years' course at the Backus hospital nurses' training school. Mrs. Anderson leaves today (Wednesday) for Groton to work in the shipping yard.
